

Boutique Hotel

What to expect:

This description fits a hotel which offers a service to clients who wish to enjoy a unique experience. Basically there are two kinds:

One is a boutique hotel in a city with special ultra modern décor and furniture.

Only the best in the field of technology like plasma screen and surround sound systems together with quality works of art and small detail, are usually found.

The other kind is one which enables you to escape to fantasy surroundings in a castle or mansion. There may be no TV but only bubble baths, candlelight baths and Egyptian cotton sheets. The focus is mainly on unique experience.

Is it suitable?

Boutique hotels are ideally suited to people who enjoy style, luxuries and a uniquely different experience. This is perfect for romantic breakaway or an experience where you may be pampered and spoilt.

What to ask?

Check whether meals are served and whether room service is available. Mostly all the rooms in a boutique hotel are uniquely decorated and it might be fun to ask to see all the rooms and then decide which one you like best. You can usually check on the website or brochure.
